RESTORATIVE PRACTICES WITH A Creative Twist

Join us for a new professional development opportunity that puts more than a “creative twist” on restorative circles. Learn about the basics of restorative practices to create heartfelt and student-centered connections in your classroom community. Relationships are at the center of all restorative practices. This experiential workshop will model safe, inclusive, mindful, and creative strategies for both your staff and your students. This highly interactive professional development is full of opportunities to learn, practice, and reflect. This course will meet virtually over three sessions.

About the presenter:

Michelle Holdt is a bold, creative, and love-drenched voice in the world of educational change. Michelle is an artist, a mom, a passionate advocate leading for Love with a capital L and Creativity with a capital C. She brings her years of arts education leadership experience combined with a passionate commitment to self-awareness and creativity to this vision. Some of her highly acclaimed workshops include The Art of Self Care & Lead with Your Humanity. She is also the author of Radiance: The Art of Self Love, and the co-producer of Arts is the Root. Michelle was the Founding Executive Director of Arts Ed Matters and the Arts & Restorative Learning Coordinator for the San Mateo County Office of Education. She truly embodies living an arts-driven life & makes the arts accessible for all she reaches. Michelle holds multiple degrees and credentials in education including a BA in Drama and Human Development from Harvard.
